Pamela Wright is the Country Representative of MCNV in Hanoi, Vietnam, and part of the management team in Amsterdam. Born in 1948 in Canada, where she received her PhD in medical biology in 1975, she has resided and worked in the Netherlands since 1978, after a postdoc in the Institute of Medical Genetics in Turin, Italy. Starting with the International Immunology Training Institute in Amsterdam, she has worked with developing countries, focusing up to 1990 on immunology and molecular biology, then moving into public health and medical education. From 1987 to 1999, she worked in the Health Training Department of the Royal Tropical Institute, coordinating their MPH course and designing a new master course for biomedical research managers in developing countries. Since 1999 she has worked for MCNV, managing health programs and providing technical assistance to medical education and research programs supported by the Netherlands Embassy in Vietnam.
